Legal conditions

1. The installation of the audio device inhibition system for emergencies to allow the operation the UNE-54 public address system is mandatory when the source of sound is located in halls anywhere that may interfere with the audibility of evacuation or confinement messages broadcast over the Public Address Emergency System on the trade fair site.

Accordingly, all sound sources with the capacity to exceed 90dB and intended to be used during fairs and events (forums, musical performances, demonstrations, presentations, conference rooms, etc.) must install the above system.

All affected customers will consent to the installation of IFEMA's MADRID UNE-54 public address system before the start of the event. This consists of a remotely control device connected to audio equipment that automatically stops the sound by cutting the electricity supply to the sound sources when an evacuation or confinement message is broadcast through the public address system.

For safety reasons, IFEMA MADRID and its authorised collaborating companies reserve the right to inspect the sound source inhibition system equipment to ensure that it has been installed correctly at any time. These inspectors are entitled to carry out their inspections and any issues they encounter must be resolved.

2. Participation conditions

The applicant is aware of and agrees to the following conditions for the installation of the equipment:

- The device is the property of IFEMA MADRID.
- The purpose of the sound inhibition system is to ensure the audibility of the public address system when this is activated.
- Only authorised staff are entitled to handle the sound inhibition equipment.
- Applicants will allow such checks on the sound inhibition system as are necessary to ensure the proper functioning of the system.
- Applicants are responsible for installation costs and for storing the economic value of the inhibition unit in the event of loss or theft.
- The sound inhibitor will be returned upon request to IFEMA MADRID accredited staff on the date and at the time specified in this document.
